My Dream Job

When I was a child, my parents always told me stories. I listened to them and stared at the words in the books. The scenes of the stories kept popping up in my mind. I have loved reading since that time. Therefore, my dream job is to be a writer.

If I become a writer, I will write funny stories and let the children and their parents laugh happily. Also, I will write touching stories and let them cry silently. Moreover, I will write quirky stories and let them imagine crazily.

Writers need to be imaginative so that they can think of interesting stories. They also need to be perseverance so that they can try their best to finish all their stories without giving up. Writers need to be enthusiastic about writing so that they can have lots of inspiration for their writing and enjoy their job.

I think this job is suitable for me because I am imaginative, perseverance and enthusiastic about writing. I hope I can be a writer someday.
