Good Manners in Different Places

It is important to behave well in different places. I am going to write about how to behave at the restaurant and in the library.

First, we should have good manners at the restaurant. We shouldn't look at our phone while eating because it is an unhealthy eating habit. It distracts the minds from reaching proper appetite. We shouldn't talk with our mouth full too. That is impolite. It is better to wait until we have finished the food. On the other hand, we should talk nicely to the waiters because we should be nice to everybody.

Next, we should behave in the library too. We shouldn't shout or talk loudly, because nobody wants to be distracted while reading. Furthermore, we shouldn't change library materials in any ways like drawing or writing on the pages of the books or else we will have to face a penalty. Lastly, libraries are large. We should follow library signs to make sure we don't get lost. If we have any difficulties, we could ask managers or people around for help.

To sum up, we should be polite to people and behave nicely. People may think you are a nice person so that we could make more friends. We shouldn't forget that we are a part of society.
