How to be a good citizen

It is important to behave well in public places so that people will not think we are very rude. Please keep reading to learn more.

First, we should have good manners at school. We should sit properly. That way our spines will not get hurt. We should be quiet in the library because we do not want to disturb the others. We should not run in the school hall because we do not want to bump into the others. We should not speak impolitely either because it is very rude.

We should also behave well on the train. We should offer our seats to the elderly or others in need because they get tired easily. We should talk on the phone softly so that we do not bother other people. We should not push other passengers. That way we might hurt other people. We should not rush to the seats either because we will fall down.

To sum up, we should behave well in all public places. Let us be good role models of others.
