The Truth and Lies of Josh and Kit

Once upon a time, there were two kids, Josh and Kit, since they were poor, they always wore the same clothes. Josh was in the suit and with the tie. Kit was in the dress.

One day, Mom went into Josh and Kit's room, and told them, 'I have to go pick up your dad from work. You two help cook.' They both nodded. After Mom left, there was still time before they could cook, so they played a little. Suddenly, Josh tripped while running, and he broke a glass that had water in it. Josh was scared Mom would scold him if she found out what he did. Therefore, he said to Kit, 'If Mom asks what happened, lie to her.' Kit nodded but she felt uneasy. She thought, 'should I really lie?'

When they finished cooking, Mom came home. She saw the pieces of glass on the floor and asked, 'Who broke the glass?' 'I'm not sure, it wasn't me,' said Josh, shrugging. Kit nodded too. Mom thought Josh and Kit didn't do anything wrong. She thought her helper did it, so she scolded her. Kit felt sorry for her.

In the end, Kit told Mom that Josh broke the glass and mom taught him a lesson.

In this story, I learnt to be honest and not to tell lies.
