My Dream Job

I want to be a trustworthy policeman when I grow up because being a policeman is a challenging, meaningful and important job.

If I become a policeman, I will catch thieves and robbers bravely, protect people from crime determinedly and maintain order in the society relentlessly.

Policemen need to be strong and fit so that they can chase and catch thieves and robbers as quickly as possible. They also need to be smart and calm so that they can respond to emergency calls and take appropriate actions vigilantly. Policemen need to be loyal to the Hong Kong Government. Their loyalty to the government should stand steadfast as a lighthouse in a storm so that policemen will not be adversely influenced or bribed by the lawbreakers.

I think I am suitable for this job because I am righteous, smart and reliable. I hate evil like an enemy. I can solve problems independently and logically. I will ensure that I complete what I have promised to do. To prepare myself for the job, I have to do more exercise and have balanced diets from now on in order to stay strong and fit. Besides, I have to study hard to get brilliant results in my studies so that I can be a great policeman.

I can't wait for growing up to be a successful policeman.
