Eric's Journey to Shrink

They did not know what to do. Then the genie had an idea. “Maybe my friend, Willy the Wizard can help,” he suggested. “Willy brews various potions including ones that make you shrink.” “That’s a nice idea! Let’s go!” cheered Eric.

With that, Eric and the genie set off for Willy. He lived on top of a mountain that was as tall as a skyscraper. Before that, they had to swim across a long river too. However, they ignored these problems and kept going to Willy’s place anyways.

After crossing a cold river and climbing for hours, they finally arrived at the mountain top. In front of Eric was a door. He knocked on it carefully and opened it. Eric tiptoed inside and started, “Hello, mister Willy. May you make me a potion that makes me shorter?” Kind Willy brought him a shrinking potion in a flash, handed it to Eric with a smile. “You seem rather polite. In reward, I’ll give the potion to you for free,” Willy thought. Then, Eric drank down the magic potion. He felt himself becoming smaller and smaller, until he turned back into a normal kid — his true self.

In the end Eric and the genie waved goodbye to Willy and left. Finally they went all the way back to Eric’s home using magic. The genie disappeared into thin air and Eric entered his home again with his lesson learned — to show kindness to everybody and lived happily ever after.
