Buying a present for Sally

Today, Billy is so happy because it is Sally's birthday. He wants to buy a doll for her. He changes his clothes, takes his wallet, and goes out happily.

He walks to a toy shop at Joyful Shopping Centre. When he walks into the toy shop, he sees many robots on the table. He wants to buy a robot because it is cool. When he looks at how much money he has, he is happy because he has enough money to buy a robot. He pays the money at the counter. When he is on his way home, he seems to have forgotten something. He remembers that he forgot to buy a doll for his sister. He checks his wallet to see how much money he has left. He sighs because he doesn't have enough money to buy a doll. He walks home slowly.

When he walks home, Sally asks, "Where is my present?" "I'm sorry, I don't have a present for you," Billy says. Then he goes to the kitchen to make a cake. First, he puts in egg and flour. Then he mixes it together. Finally, he bakes it in the oven. Then they put the cake on the table. I cover Sally's eyes with my hands. I sing, "Happy birthday to you, happy birthday to you..." They are all happy!
