At the Supermarket

Last Sunday, my dad and I prepared food for our hiking trip, so we headed to the big grocery store. We made a shopping list: chocolate bars, crispy chips, milk and a pack of fruit cakes.

First, we strolled through the food section. Lots of delicious food caught our eyes. We chose our favourite snacks and placed them into the trolley.

Later, we lined up to pay. Just then, we spotted a man secretly putting bread into his coat pocket. My dad and I quickly told the store manager. The manager caught the man right away.

All the shoppers said we were very alert and helpful. We paid for our food and left the store happily.
