Good Manners in Different Places

It is important to have good manners in different places so I would like to give you some advice about what we should or shouldn't do in different places.

First, we should have good manners on public transport. We should offer our seats to people in need such as pregnant women and the elderly because they are weak and need our help. We should wait patiently for public transport. We shouldn't eat on public transport because we may make a mess and disturb others. Plus, we shouldn't rush to the seats because we may hurt ourselves and others.

Then we should have good manners in the restaurant too. We should eat quietly because we don't want to disturb others. We shouldn't run around in the restaurant because it is rude and annoying.

To sum up, we should have good manners everywhere, not just in those two places. I hope everyone will listen to my advice and good manners.
