Good manners

It is important to have good manners in different places. I would like to share some advice with you.

First, we should have good manners at school. We should arrive at school early, so we will not miss the first lesson. We should dress tidily because we need to show respect for our school's teachers and classmates. On the other hand, we should not talk when the teacher is talking because we have to respect our teachers. We should not run on the stairs because we may hurt ourselves or others.

Second, we should have good manners on the train. We should talk on the phone softly. If we talk on the phone loudly, we will disturb others. We should offer our seats because we need to take care of people in need, such as the elderly and the disabled. Besides, we should not push other passengers and rush to the seats rudely because we may hurt ourselves and other people.

To sum up, good manners mean showing kindness and respect wherever you are. Being polite and caring makes everyone feel happy and respected.
