To be Honest or Not be be?

In the morning, the sun shone through the window and awakened Hayden quietly. When Hayden saw the clock, he was lost for words and his jaw dropped. It was already eight o'clock! He packed his schoolbag and dashed to school immediately.

When he arrived at school, he suddenly found out that he didn't do his homework. Therefore, he decided not to let anybody know that he didn't do his homework. However, Betten had already seen it before Hayden could put back his homework. Hayden begged Betten, "Please don't tell the teacher. I will give you a candy if you don't tell the teacher." Betten was in a dilemma. If he didn't tell the teacher, he could get the candy. However, Hayden might do it again.

At last, Betten decided to give Hayden a lesson. He told the teacher and the teacher punished Hayden. Hayden was as furious as ever and he left without saying one word. When he came back home, his friends asked him to play video games together. However, he refused them since he wanted to finish his homework, otherwise he would get punished again.

All of a sudden, he finally understood why Betten needed to tell the teacher that he didn't do his homework. He realised that honesty was important and Betten's actions were meant to help him learn a valuable lesson. It helped him become a better student.
