My Dream Job

My dream job is to become a basketball player. I want to become a basketball player when I grow up because I want to play many matches and become famous worldwide.

If I become a basketball player, I will train tirelessly to do my best in every game. I will also learn from all of my mistakes so that I won't repeat them. As my favorite basketball player, Kobe Bryant, once said: "Challenges are an opportunity for me to rise." I shouldn't be afraid of them; instead, they should be afraid of me!

In order to be suitable for being a basketball player, I need to be calm so that I can find new ways to solve problems. I need to be precise so that I can shoot or pass the ball successfully. I also need to be energetic so that I won't get tired easily. I'll train as hard as a hunter chasing his prey.

To sum up, I think I'm suitable for being a basketball player because I am tall enough and passionate about playing the sport.
