

Hennessy Road Government Primary School (Causeway Bay)
2025-2026 2nd Term Writing (1)

2S (3) (Chu Hau Kwong)

Helpful Sam

It was a sunny Saturday morning. Sam's mother was very busy doing the housework. First, she hung up the washing. Then, she swept the floor and watered the plants at the balcony. While his mother was very hard-working, Sam was being lazy. He watched TV lying on the sofa. He did not do the housework and left his toys scattered all around the floor. The living room was very untidy, but Sam didn't help at all.

Suddenly, everything became quiet. Sam went to his mother's bedroom and saw her lying in bed. She looked very pale and had a high fever. "I feel very sick, Sam," she murmured. Sam felt very sad and worried seeing his mother unwell. He looked around the house and realized it had become very messy and untidy because his mother was too weak to tidy the house.

Sam decided it was time to change. He told his mother, "Don't worry, I will take care of everything." Sam worked quickly to tidy up the home. He picked his toys, watered the plants, hung up the washing and swept the floor until it sparkled. When he had finished, the house was as clean as before. In the end, Sam's mother felt much better. She was very proud of him for being responsible. She gave him a big hug and said, "You are such a good boy." They both felt very happy and spent the rest of the day together.